This highly acclaimed wine has achieved an enviable reputation,
24 vintages from 1984 thru' to 2012

James Haselgrove Wines was founded in 1981 by the Haselgrove Family who have a long tradition of winemakers making fine Australian wines. Third generation winemaker, Nick Haselgrove is the current custodian of the family name along with father, James – together they make fine wines of distinction and style.

The Futures Shiraz was first made in 1984 as a rich, full bodied Shiraz wine style that is very suitable for cellaring yet maintains drinkability. The 2012 wine will be the 24th release after maturation in French & American oak, a small proportion of which are new.

Fruit for this release comes from a vineyard planted in the northern, schist and ironstone slopes of McLaren Vale. Rich, concentrated fruit was handpicked then open fermented before being put to larger oak barrels to finish fermentation and then mature for up to 30 months.

This wine has lovely medium to long term potential which will augment the savoury fruit characters expressed by this terroir of McLaren Vale. As we want this wine to mature gracefully in the bottle we will use DIAM cork for quality cellaring that will still allow the wine to slowly develop complexity and regional nuances.
